SirsiDynix Appoints Matthew Hawkins as New COO

New executive joins recently appointed CEO, CFO on company's senior management team

PROVO, Utah, July 31, 2007 – SirsiDynix, the global leader in strategic technology solutions for libraries, announced today the appointment of Matthew J. Hawkins as chief operating officer (COO). Hawkins will be responsible for the company's Client Care, Implementation and Consulting & Education organizations. Hawkins will work primarily from the SirsiDynix office in Provo, Utah.

Hawkins brings varied experience from a range of high-level operational roles, including most recently the role of vice president and general manager of Henry Schein Practice Solutions, a Utah-based provider of healthcare software, equipment and value-added services. Prior to joining Henry Schein, Hawkins served as a strategy consultant for McKinsey & Co. in Dallas; as a project manager for Tenfold Corp., a software firm in Salt Lake City; and as a financial analyst for Electronic Data Systems in Chicago, Dallas and Tokyo. Hawkins holds an MBA from Harvard Business School and a bachelor's degree from Brigham Young University.

"Matt brings great experience to SirsiDynix in managing software, technology and business operations," said Gary Rautenstrauch, SirsiDynix CEO. "He will be an important asset for us as we work to optimize our operations to serve and support our customers more effectively than ever before."

Hawkins added, "I am excited about working with the talented professionals at SirsiDynix, a company with a reputation for serving its customers and building for the future, not to mention excited about the opportunity to work with library customers around the world who are using our solutions in so many exciting ways."
