SirsiDynix welcomes 88 new library systems to the SirsiDynix Symphony[®] family at COSUGI 2013

2012 sees robust growth in the SirsiDynix customer base with new libraries joining from all major ILS vendors.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH (March 14, 2013) – SirsiDynix, the world’s leading provider of library technology solutions, announced today that 88 new library customers migrated to SirsiDynix Symphony in 2012. SirsiDynix CEO Bill Davison welcomed the new customers into the growing SirsiDynix library community during the keynote session of COSUGI, the largest user conference of SirsiDynix customers. The new Symphony customer libraries migrated from a number of other ILS providers, including Polaris, Innovative, ExLibris, OCLC, Follett, Bookmark, Civica, TLC, Koha and others. In addition to these new customers, 25 existing SirsiDynix customers upgraded their system to Symphony[®] ILS.

“2012 was a very strong year for SirsiDynix, both in terms of gaining new customers as well as the development of new products. We will work hard to make sure that the libraries that joined the SirsiDynix family this past year will have that decision validated again and again,” said SirsiDynix Chief Executive Officer Bill Davison. “On behalf of the entire SirsiDynix team, we are delighted to welcome these customers and we are committed to earning their business and exceeding their expectations.”

SirsiDynix also added 120 Horizon, Symphony, and Enterprise and Portfolio customers to its industry-leading SaaS hosting solution in 2012. With the addition of new SaaS customers for 2012, SirsiDynix now hosts the library systems of nearly 800 customers.

“We’re excited to see such strong growth in the SirsiDynix SaaS customer community,” said Brett Hall, SirsiDynix Director of SaaS. “We provide the best value in security, service, and uptime in the industry, and we look forward to delivering the standard of service we’re known for to our new customers.”
